RON HISTORYO....Time Cop

I love finding what I call nooks and crannies. Right down the bottom end of the county of Lincoln we have Spalding. My weight training mentor went to live there, said it was very quiet and flat, myself, never been to Lincoln.

You're looking down the street at the corn exchange, I think built in the 1850's and I suspect a capacity of low in the hundreds.

I believe wrestling peaked in the early 1960's with the Pallo/McManus feud, Dr Death and two Rivers, Starr and Gordienko etc. So many visitors then and it's position on TV. As early as the 1920's the Exchange had hosted boxing and I suppose it was only a matter of time before someone had a go at promoting wrestling. Don't know if Joint ever did but what looks like Jack Taylor to me brought some refreshing faces to Spalding and the fact that he managed a few years, think he must have done the game proud.

Hack, correct me if these are not Jack Taylor. Enjoy a couple of bills from 1961

Nice to get these bills to sit alongside my bills for Lincoln and Grantham and a few other places. Over the years I have seen bills where the advert might cover one week and also double up with next weeks bill included. Not so sure if I have ever seen a promoter's advert where he shows two shows in different towns on the same template. For me, I think it might be a first. Enjoy these and I have more to show you soon.

Fascinating Ron. You certainly know how to get me excited with these 1960s opposition adverts. Spalding especially as I was intrigued with the place around 1970 when Ringsport had reports of the shows. Promoters at that time were, I think, Starr Promotions and this is backed up by Martin Campbell in the Golden Years of Wisbech and Golden Days For Fenland. Martin also tells of Wryton taking over, which I was Yes, surely must be Taylor. Bourne too looks like Taylor, "The man's sport that ladies loved" was a slogan he used and again some Taylor regulars.

Yes, Benniston is in the A-Z. Not in there are the Hungarians Georgy Cselko and Imre Csak. These too were Taylor lads. Genuine Hungarians came over in 1956 and both settled in Leicester. Their main interest was body building and were only in wrestling for a few years. According to his obituary in The Stage the first opponent of Pat Roach was Georgy Cselko. Cselko was even bestowed with a European Heavyweight title

I was a huge fan of Adnan Al-Kassie, pictured in an earlier incarnation as Billy White Wolf, as I have posted previously (leading to quite a nasty exchange which kept me off the site for just over a year but that is all in the past). I recall that Spalding had a huge festival of flowers each year with a street parade featuring floats displaying tableaux featuring literary and historical characters all created from locally-grown flowers. Bill Clarke did quite a few shows for me in the seventies. He built up quite a little circuit of shows around Lincolnshire and I'm pretty sure he mentioned Spalding as one of his acquisitions.

Bill Smith

Adnan Al-Kassie was a very good legit wrestler, he excelled both as a villain "Sheik" and as a good guy "Billy White Wolf". Can't fault you Jazzman

I'm having a good laugh at the Hal Strickland v. Lee Scott bout. Hal coming from "England" and Lee coming from "Canada", both of course were from Fleetwood. The promoters, in this case Jack Taylor were always very creative in their billings.

And of course "The Monster" (Jim Green) and "Angus Campbell" (later as Rex Strong) both from Blackpool. A good car full from the Lancs coast.

For me the 1970's went into the mists of time, Belle Vue and Bolton closing in 82, I think and TV UK wrestling going missing in 1988, for a long time it seems that this was it, but I noticed a few bills in nearby Holbeach, and for younger Heritager's than myself the names may well be quite familiar. So there we have it, wrestling shrunk, but it kept going and even I remember some of these.

I was at the 14/03/1992 show at Holbeach. The Kilbys actually fought The Superflys and it kicked off for real after their bout. That was only the opener!

Hack

Going back to Ron's earlier comment about Manne Hermann. I doubt if this was Steve Veidor as Steve was a heavyweight by 1962. I admit a mere weight difference of a few stones wouldn't worry Jack Taylor. But I think Manne Hermann was more likely Pete Herman from Barnsley. The January 1962 bill does include Butcher Goodman and Leon Arras from the same gym, though the January April bill doesn't have any Barnsley lads. Moving on to 1993. Seeing Barry Douglas against Ray Robinson at Holbeach Community Centre seems so sad. Sorry Holbeach, I'm sure you're a lovely place, but these were the great wrestlers of our time. Their name on a Community Centre bill is as sad as the closed down BHS and Debenhams shops in our High Streets.

howard_m

The shows at Holbeach were well-attended and there was always a great atmosphere.

What the Heck, I have just noticed the 1973 show below, one Paul Mitchell on with Les Kellett.

Hope Paul (Bkendo1) is reading the thread because I would love an insight as to who had a finger in this pie. Did Paul go down with the Royals. Les went back next year and Mick McMichael did a couple. A good mix of different workers from all over.

Hack
These are remarkably good bills for a village show.

bkendo1
Yes you're right about travelling arrangements plus Johnny from Farnworth I remember this mainly as this was the first time I saw Les complain and replace the ref, saw it another couple of times with poor Len Ross no idea why As for promoter

Ernie was in attendance.

RON HISTORYO....Time Cop

Jack Taylor continued to promote the area through the 1960's, but with fingers in the pie at Bourne, Stamford and Spalding, no one man could have it all.

Dale Martins promoted at Northampton, Corby, Peterborough and Coventry and that seems to have been the northern limit. They even did Norwich and Kings Lynn. Could they be favourites or should we consider Ted Beresford who was at Grantham.

With a southern Boundary of Birmingham already, it turned out that it was Wryton who came into Spalding, and not the Corn Exchange, much too small. The Savoy Cinema or Theatre held 1500 with 1000 downstairs and a circle of 500 above.

Enjoy a few more and a tip to Ost, I don't think these made the Plunkett Index. And a 1964 Kendo Nagasaki working nice and safe with Jim Hussey.

RON HISTORYO....Time Cop

The area of Spalding, Bourne and Stamford on the border of Rutland and also Oakham in Rutland was proving to be profitable for Wrestling and Paul Lincoln moved into the area before Wryton (1964) by capturing Stamford in 1963.

Left, Stamford Central Cinema.

When I was a boy, Urmston, where I lived, had three Cinema's, but by 1960 two of the had been closed, One became a warehouse for Bulbs (garden) the other knocked down. Two cinema's in Bolton converted to wrestling stadiums, several in Salford and one I often talk about is Cornbrook. What was it with the cinema struggling. I think it had to be TV.

The crowds must have been good . Paul Lincoln completed a year there. Marino and Death were in their pomp.

Just for good measure I would have loved to have spectated at this 1967 show on the left. This one at the Corn Exchange and a Taylor show almost certainly.

Nawamba had a short career , talked about recently.

A fake Dr Death and feel sure that Romero was Kendo's jobbing White Angel in 1974 or so.

But Shirley and Cowboy Jack could have been good.

Hack

Lansbury Club Starr Promotions was Bill Clark and Les Lunn. The last one almost certainly Taylor.

RON HISTORYO....Time Cop

Thanks Hack and for me in later years at Bourne I have not much idea who promoted this variation of shows, I am Guessing Clark had a finger in the pie on some of them.

Bourne even scheduled for Tv in 1980.

To finish with a couple more venues in Spalding in later years.

I wasn't even sure Rocky Wall worked in 1975 although this was early in the year.

And again some more venues in the area not mentioned , but again much later.

Who was Chief White Cloud please?

Riot Squad

Well this is our Chief White Cloud. Almost certainly this would not be a fella in Langham on Bank Holiday Monday. I think we can safely say no Native North Americans were harmed in this wrestling match.

Hack

Here's the poster to accompany one of Ron's adverts posted on 13th October. It confirms this was a Jack Taylor programme. I came across it when looking for something to post on the Poster for Newsletter 7th November thread. As I noted it is interesting as an early example of Taylor using the Wrestling Federation of Great Britain banner. The year is 1962.

Hack

Pat Favarque mentioned earlier looked like a Jack Taylor wrestler. I wonder if he was Pete Lapaque?
